Message From the Executive Director

Who says you can't buy love? Not us at Tri-County Humane Society! Forget dating apps or reality TV shows; this outstanding organization has been making love matches for more than four decades. We're happy to say that 2021 is starting off very strong in adoption numbers, after an already impressive 2020 (more on that later!). There are clearly a lot of people out there with plenty of love to give to a shelter pet, and for that we're grateful.

This newsletter is full of ways for you to show your love for your favorite animal shelter. A (virtual) Wine, Kibbles & Bids and an (in-person but COVID conscientious) Flower Fundraiser are on the way, both of which help support our animals. And, if you're like me, you appreciate quality items at a bargain - so you should become a regular at our Re-Tail Revisited pet thrift store. Not only will you help our shelter, you'll score great deals.

While we're all about looking forward, we're going to take a minute to sing our own praises about 2020 - a challenging but ultimately for TCHS, very rewarding year. Opening this new animal shelter was a vision and dream come true that had been decades in the making.

We certainly didn't expect to do it in the middle of a historic pandemic - but if you look through the chaos, there's a silver lining. As someone once said, when life throws you a rainy day (or months!) play in the puddles! Well, our best playtime happened around an increase in customers' interest in adopting. Our adoption rates were already high, but with many people staying home more or some nearly all the time, our furry clients were leaving almost as fast as we could get them ready for adoption. It's reassuring to know that a few weeks into this year, that trend is the same.

Get a look at how we did last year on pages 8-9, which show annual report highlights. Now, of course, behind every statistic is a story, and we're proud that happy endings were plentiful in 2020.

We look forward to many more of them this year - appropriately enough for this month, almost all our tales are love stories.

"Until one has loved an animal, a part of one's soul remains unawakened." - Anatole France

Vicki Davis, CAWA

We are definitely trying to keep up with the demand to adopt! In 2021, we've taken in 150 transfers—or half of what we did over all of last year! In the picture to the left are some of our TCHS team members hard at work checking in new animals from a partner rescue.

The Scoop ... Outdoor Cats: Friendly or Feral?

We love cats. Cute cats, grumpy cats, chonky cats, sassy cats, scaredy cats – all of them. Many people want to care for and help them, especially when they are spotted outdoors and potentially vulnerable.

But not all cats need the same type of help. If you see a loose cat outdoors, what should you do? To better approach the large task of cat welfare, we must first understand a little more about cat populations.

What's in a name?

There is a variety of terms used to describe cats found outdoors, and a variety of ways to interpret those terms. What is a stray cat? How about a feral cat? Lost cat? Barn cat? While there is overlap in some of the definitions, we can make generalizations about certain categories of cats to better help them.

The major distinctions we need to make at Tri-County Humane Society when planning for the humane care of these found cats is the difference between "stray" and "feral." At TCHS a "stray" is a domestic animal that has been found roaming at large without known ownership status. This means the animal appears to have the potential to be someone's lost pet or livestock. Specific laws apply to found stray pets to allow owners (if they have them) to reclaim them. TCHS provides safe shelter and humane care to stray animals from many areas of Central Minnesota until either an owner is found, or the animal legally becomes eligible for adoption.

By Rose Hegerle, CVT

A "feral" cat is one that has not been socialized to humans, lives independently off the land as wildlife does, and is not tame. Feral cats are not pets nor domestic, therefore not in the same category as stray cats. A stray cat and feral cat may first appear to look the same, so observing the details of their behavior and habits are vital.

Any cat who willingly approaches a human, shows affection, and/or appears comfortable spending time with people would be considered a stray. Those are all signals of domestication and the cat may have an owner. A feral cat will avoid humans at all costs. Fight, flight, and freeze are the responses feral cats often exercise when in contact with humans. Feral cats typically do not meow. They may use other vocal communications, but the meow is specific to communicating with people.

Ask the experts

Unfortunately, domestic cats may exhibit some of the signs feral cats do when fearful. This is where expert advice comes into play. When you spot a cat outdoors you wish to help, we recommend you call Tri-County Humane Society (or your local animal welfare organization) to discuss the specifics of the cat and to make a plan.

Why is the distinction so important? These two categories of cats require different approaches to provide humane cat care and population control. A stray cat can be housed at the shelter during the legal timeframe that allows an owner to reclaim a lost pet. If no owner is found, then they will be placed for adoption. A feral cat cannot be humanely housed in a shelter for an extended period of time. They often behave as wild animals when in confinement. High stress results in poor health, repeated attempts to escape can cause injury, and the human finder and caregivers may be at risk of injury or illness. Approaches to feral cat population control have evolved over the past several decades. While euthanasia may have been the only option in the past, studies confirm that more humane and effective options exist. Trap-Neuter-Return (TNR) or Return-To-Field (RTF) programs decrease feral and outdoor cat populations through humane trapping, neutering, vaccinating, and returning to an outdoor life.

Tri-County Humane Society has a small scale TNR/RTF program that includes returning cats to their outdoor environment and/or finding barn or "working cat" homes to cats who are not domesticated. As with any other community service, resources and space may be limited or postponed depending on the factors of the shelter animal population at any given time. The only way to humanely utilize these programs is to ensure a short stay in the shelter for feral cats, so planning is vital. Please call TCHS (320-252-0896) to get more information or to make a plan of action to help a cat.

Save a buck, help the animals at Re-Tail Revisited

By Kate Kompas

Volunteer Coordinator

Tri-County Humane Society knows you want to treat your pet – but you also may need to go easy on your wallet. It was that thinking that led to our organization opening the TCHS Re-Tail Revisited shop in our Training Center in mid-December.

Re-Tail Revisited is a pet supply thrift store, carrying gently used (and a few never-used) products for our furry, feathered and scaly friends. The Training Center, which is next to the shelter, used to be where the TCHS surgery team did their work.

Our new shelter includes an on-site surgical suite, so the Training Center didn't have an immediate use. Coincidentally, the new shelter doesn't have any space for the TCHS "donated merchandise" area, which was popular among bargain shoppers at our now-raised former shelter.

TCHS Executive Director Vicki Davis had noted that other humane societies have had luck raising money through thrift stores. (In fact, TCHS had a general thrift store, 4 Pets' Sake, about seven years ago that was on a property across town.)

Re-Tail Revisited will be different because it is on TCHS property (convenience and no lease!) and because it has a niche: offering only pet-related supplies.

Special Events Coordinator Angela Mundis got to work, organizing the many, many gently used items that TCHS had been gifted in the months immediately after moving into the new shelter. With the help of some other staff and volunteers, Mundis aimed to design the ultimate indoor garage sale for pet lovers.

So far, it's been a great success, Mundis said. She estimates it's raised more than $2,000 in profit so far for the shelter.

And Re-Tail Revisited is close to Mundis' heart for a good reason (actually, three good reasons): She's a dog mom to three senior citizen pugs, so she knows the importance of a bargain.

"Owning a pet can be spendy, so knowing we are able to help people who are looking for ways to save a little money is my favorite part," she said. "They can still treat their pet like the kings/queens they are, even on a budget."

There also is a wide variety of offerings. "We have everything from food and water bowls, tons of leashes, to crates of all sizes," Mundis said. "We also carry some small critter and bird items, as well as aquarium supplies. There is something for every pet owner!"

Due to COVID, face masks are required inside Re-Tail Revisited, and volunteers who work at the shop enforce social distancing. Still, it's a comfortable shopping experience, Mundis said.

"It's heated! Shopping is fun and easy and no one will leave empty handed," she said. "And the best part? All the proceeds help us continue our mission to help animals in need."

Save the Date: Virtual Wine, Kibbles & Bids is back!

Tri-County Humane Society will again have to reimagine our annual Wine, Kibbles & Bids celebration due to COVID-19. While we won't be able to gather in person, we're still going to put on an outstanding virtual event that will raise much-needed money for our animals! Stay tuned for details about an online silent auction and much more! Wine, Kibbles & Bids will be celebrated (virtually) on April 30. Please watch your emails and our social media posts for more information— we'll have plenty to toast to!

TCHS Reflects on a Challenging, Rewarding Year

Tri-County Humane Society released its annual report earlier this year—and as we all know, 2020 was a year unlike any others in recent memory. TCHS moved into its new shelter last year, and faced COVID-related adjustments including changing how we do our adoptions and viewings (now by appointment). We also saw an increased demand in adoptions, which has yet to subside.

Kitty Korner Closes, But Hundreds Found Love!

Tri-County Humane Society would like to thank Jim and Brenda Feneis for graciously allowing us to use their property as the TCHS Kitty Korner. The Kitty Korner opened in June 2019; it closed temporarily a few times due first to COVID, then staffing shortages—then cat shortages! But we are grateful for the time we had there—and that we adopted out 528 cats and kittens in that year and a half.

To everyone who visited the little cozy space, THANK YOU.

Meet Crystal! TCHS Welcomes New Manager of Fund Development

Tri-County Humane Society this month welcomed the newest member of our management team, Crystal Specht.

She is our Manager of Fund Development, and her duties include (but certainly aren't limited to) cultivating new donors while retaining givers. She'll work closely with Special Events Coordinator Angela Mundis, too.

Specht is new to her role but not to TCHS; she worked as a part-time staff in 2015. "I was so sad to leave," she said. "I left with the intentions of gaining more office experience with the hopes that I would be able to bring that knowledge back to TCHS someday. I am elated that my hopes came true and feel so honored to have been welcomed back six years later."

Specht is from St. Cloud and has spent most of her life in Central Minnesota. In her free time, she loves to travel, camp and explore, listen to music, and create things artistically. Of course, she has pets.

"We have two animals at home, a minidachshund, we call her Weener, and our head of household kitty cat Sassy," she said. Weener was an "unexpected rescue" from a puppy mill, and Sassy is a TCHS alum. "My fiancé Bryan and I do

Focus on Foster Care

Tri-County Humane Society's foster program is like our second shelter—at any time, hundreds of our animals are getting care outside the shelter thanks to our dedicated foster volunteers. We will try to dedicate some newsletter space to keep our friends up to date on what's going on with this important program! Learn more about fostering or apply at our website, www.tricountyhumanesociety.org.

Do You Want to Foster Bottle Babies?

What you need to know before committing:

1. They need to be fed every 2-6 hours (depending on age) around the clock - yes, even during the night. This means taking them with you if you're going to be away for feeding times.
2. Kittens need a warm environment until at least 5 weeks old when they can regulate their body temperatures. Heating pads are a necessity for neonates to keep them at an appropriate temperature.
3. You are responsible for stimulating them to urinate and defecate until they learn to use the litter box (3-5 weeks old).
4. Neonatal kittens crash quickly when something is wrong. You know them best and should always be watching for abnormalities (ie. diarrhea, refusing to eat). It is important to act fast when something is wrong and contact Tri-County Humane Society right away.
5. Even when you do everything right, a human is not the same as their feline mom. Not all kittens will survive, even if everything is done right, and that is NEVER your fault.
6. Caring for a kitten from such a dependent, vulnerable age until they are fully developed, independent and ready for adoption creates an intense bond between yourself and the kitten. Remember that "goodbye is the goal" of fostering and even though it is hard to let them leave to join their new family, now you can save another life!

Supplies that TCHS always needs for our neonate program:

1. Electronic gram scale
2. Miracle Nipple Mini
3. PetAg 2oz Nurser Bottles
4. Small blender bottles
5. High-quality kitten kibble and canned food

Spotlight on ... Kovu Nakoa

Save the Date!

Get ready to RSVP to the cutest party of the year— TCHS will host its annual kitten shower on April 19-20. We are hoping you will consider a monetary donation and/or in-kind donations from our kitten shower wish list. Keep an eye on www.tricountyhumanesociety.org and our social media accounts for details!

Did You Know?

In 2020, the number one reason that an animal was sent to foster care was because they were too small or young for adoption. (Kittens and puppies generally have to be 8 weeks old before they can be ready for their new homes.)
